

Readytolearn — Legacy Giving (Will & Estate) Wording Templates

This document provides general sample wording that may be used when discussing a legacy gift (bequest) to Readytolearn in a will. It is not legal advice. Laws vary by country and region. Please consult a qualified solicitor/attorney or licensed estate professional before signing or updating any will or trust.

1) Fixed sum (pecuniary gift)

“I give to Readytolearn [LEGAL ENTITY NAME], registered in [COUNTRY/REGION], the sum of [AMOUNT] from my estate, to be used at its discretion to support education, learning access, accessibility, and related public-benefit activities.”

2) Percentage of estate

“I give to Readytolearn [LEGAL ENTITY NAME], registered in [COUNTRY/REGION], [PERCENTAGE]% of my estate, to be used at its discretion to support education, learning access, accessibility, and related public-benefit activities.”

3) Residual estate (all or part of residue)

“I give the residue (or [PERCENTAGE]% of the residue) of my estate to Readytolearn [LEGAL ENTITY NAME], registered in [COUNTRY/REGION], to be applied in furtherance of its learning and educational mission.”

4) Asset liquidation language (executor-friendly)

“My executors may liquidate any assets gifted under this clause prior to transfer, and may transfer the net proceeds to Readytolearn [LEGAL ENTITY NAME].”

5) Contact details (executor)

Executors may contact Readytolearn to confirm recipient details and provide a remittance reference: legacy@readytolearn.example (replace with your official email).

Important notes

Readytolearn does not draft wills, provide legal or tax advice, act as executor, or accept custody of assets from living donors. Legacy gifts are received through normal estate administration by the executor/solicitor. If you wish to direct a legacy gift specifically toward Compassionate Give, you may include: “to be used for Compassionate Give sponsorships and learning access.”
